

PRESS RELEASE

Chelles, 17 June 2019

TSO and EIFFAGE RAIL have just been awarded the 144€m rail systems contract to provide for the extension of the RER line E to the west

TSO, in a consortium with EIFFAGE RAIL, TSO CATENAIRES and SAGES RAIL, has just been awarded the rail systems contract by SNCF Réseau to provide for the extension of the RER line E to the west between Haussmann St Lazare station and Nanterre station. The amount of the contract is 144 million euros.

The project includes the construction of 16km of concrete track in the tunnel and 12km of ballasted track in Nanterre. It will cross three new stations: Porte Maillot, La Défense and Nanterre.

The scope of work also includes the supply and installation of 73 switch and crossings, rigid and regular catenary and tunnel equipment including footbridges, dry columns, cable trays as well as lighted handrails and the inst temporary ventilation (air and dust) system.

The consortium will also be responsible for the civil engineering work for the rail signalling system, a walkway and cable unwinding as well as rail safety.

The projects, which includes a 5-month preparation phase, will begin in November 2019 and will be commissioned in December 2022.

This project, declared of public interest since 2013, aims to improve transport and connections between the east and west of the Ile-de-France, by offering a new quality of service.

ABOUT TSO: Building on 90 years of experience in France and internationally, TSO puts its expertise to work on rail infrastructures and systems (rail network construction, replacement and maintenance, electrification and catenary upgrading, topography and rail software development, rail safety, etc.). In its commitment to innovation, TSO focuses its research on delivering improvements that combine quality with service efficiency and personnel safety. The development of synergies between TSO specialist sectors and the complementary disciplines of NGE allows the Group to offer a comprehensive package of products and services to its markets.
